

yes

Blast106 is a great platform for local people to learn skills within volunteering roles at blast to help further their career within journalism or in the music industry whether that is presenting producing or the many other aspects to learn within radio.it is also a great stepping stone for local musicians looking to get their music played on the radio and to interviewed