

My fantasy is to have an award type event inviting major people/players working in TV, FILM, MEDIA INDUSTRY. Where each person wears a specialty adapted eye/head set depicting ALL the various images/problems we suffer from. EG: blurred vision where (like me) I can not see details like a person's face or the names and titles or subtitles if no audio description is not available. Or have a screen completely black = as a totally blind person has to watch TV/FILMS. Only then will relevant MEDIA, TV/FILM industry people really understand the frustrations and isolation and how very upsetting it is when we can not see or see fully. In this so called 'inclusive, caring world' a lot, lot more needs to still be done as unless personally affected or you know someone affected. No one can really understand.