

With reference to your excellent document published today - I see there is nothing regarding polarity of transmitted signals.

It is widely accepted that mixed-polarity VHF transmission penetrates better than single-polarity - either vertical or horizontal Slant polarity is used to advantage in Band II by large and small operators.

We request that Ofcom permit the use of slant polarity for small-scale DAB operators.