Manchester and surrounding areas have a deep musical history that is world famous with bands like New Order, Happy Mondays, The Smits, The Stone Roses and truly countless others making music that defined a generation.

Unlike Liverpool which seems to have excelled in preserving its musical past, many of the places in and around the city played a huge part in the Madchester movement are long since demolished and the city itself is just not recognisable from that time period.

XS Manchester is all we have left as a focus point to bring people together from that era in order to celebrate the profound effect that the music and culture of that time had, and still has, on the subtext of the city.
