

Yes

As a former presenter at the station I can say that it's about time the commitments were changed. The station was unable then as it is now to produce programming to such a small niche audience. There was a wide range of age groups who got into contact with the station as I remember. My friends never listened to the station and preferred Rock FM. As a community station it should cater for the whole of the community and I strongly agree that they should be able to change them