

Yes. Community radio should be a community resource for all. There is still a presence for the LGBT community on the station.

Chorley FM has evolved with its community over the years and is now a much respected and valued resource (the 'go to' organisation for community events and dialogue) within Chorley and its surrounding areas amongst the whole community.