

Additional comments:

I work from home, and do not want to have to take my neighbours post in when they are all out at work all day. I work in my attic, so someone at the door will disturb me. It feels mean to put an opt out sticker on my letter box.

I also think the scheme will put too much pressure on pensioners and the disabled who will be at home more than other people. If they don't want to use the sticker, then they will feel obliged to take post in and it could cause them stress.

Further, if something valuable is delivered that I have taken in and it gets stolen or damaged or who is responsible?

Question 1: Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

No - I believe it will put too much pressure on certain neighbours, particularly the old, the vulnerable and those who work from home.

Question 2: Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:Question 3: Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:
