I am concerned over the design of the trial relating to this initiative. Northern Ireland has been omitted from this without any justification, therefore, it would be unwise to roll out a trail until such times as Northern Ireland has a devolved chance to voice its opinion. A "one size fits All" approach may/may not be optimal in NI. We need the trail data to make this informed decision. Furthermore, I would call upon Royal Mail to outline their deliberations relating to the omission of NI as one of the trial sites, as the other countries of the UK were represented.

Question 1:Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

Trail data is needed in Northern Ireland before roll out in Northern Ireland

Question 2:Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:

Omission of NI data

Question 3:Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:
