

Additional comments:

Hi - Please do not allow Royal Mail to implement a scheme that will permit items to be left at neighbouring properties or vice-versa. This would not only be a breach of their legal contract to deliver addressed items to my specific address only, it would also open up old wounds to neighbours that do not particularly get along with each other due to past disagreements.

Also my privacy and security will be placed at a high risk, as current items which are delivered to myself, which having undergone the rough handling at the mercy of Royal Mail have been damaged, left part opened or are not securely sealed. This would give my nosy neighbour the full opportunity to peek inside packages which is a clear breach of my interests that are expected and indeed Royal Mail are under contract to protect. What would happen also if my neighbour were to deny receiving any alleged package, as signatures are not always obtained for even the 'special delivery guaranteed' deliveries, they have just been posted through our letterbox on numerous occasions in the past.

I would seriously considering issuing legal proceedings against Royal Mail for breach of contract, the very first time that any parcel or package that is addressed to myself at my address is left with a neighbour or the other way around. This is a clear infringement of our rights to expect parcels to be either delivered to the intended addressee or returned to the depot for collection by the absent party at a convenient time, if delivery cannot be served on the labelled address of the consignment.

I will re-register online to opt out as suggested in the leaflet as my initial protest that I am absolutely against this absurd and ridiculous illegal idea, but neither do I wish to have to display a opt/out sticker on my door or window that will allow the indignity of it being clearly on view and easily visible to my neighbour which could serve to exacerbate the situation.

Thanks. Kevin.

Question 1: Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

Hi - Please do not allow Royal Mail to implement a scheme that will permit items to be left at neighbouring properties or vice-versa. This would not only be a breach of their legal contract to deliver addressed items to my specific address only, it would also open up old wounds to neighbours that do not particularly get along with each other due to past disagreements.

Also my privacy and security will be placed at a high risk, as current items which are delivered to myself, which having undergone the rough handling at the mercy of Royal Mail have been damaged, left part opened or are not securely sealed. This would give my nosy neighbour the full opportunity to peek inside packages which is a clear breach of my interests that are expected and indeed Royal Mail are under contract to protect. What would happen also if my neighbour were to deny receiving any alleged package, as signatures are not always obtained for even the 'special delivery guaranteed' deliveries, they have just been posted through our letterbox on numerous occasions in the past.

I would seriously considering issuing legal proceedings against Royal Mail for breach of contract, the very first time that any parcel or package that is addressed to myself at my address is left with a neighbour or the other way around. This is a clear infringement of our rights to expect parcels to be either delivered to the intended addressee or returned to the depot for collection by the absent party at a convenient time, if delivery cannot be served on the labelled address of the consignment.

I will reister online to opt out as suggested in the leaflet as my initial protest that I am absolutely against this absurd and ridiculous illegal idea, but neither do I wish to have to display a opt/out sticker on my door or window that will allow the indignity of it being clearly on view and easily visible to my neighbour which could serve to exacerbate the situation.

Thanks. Kevin.

Question 2:Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:

Hi - Please do not allow Royal Mail to implent a scheme that will permit items to be left at neighbouring properties or vice-versa. This would not only be a breach of their legal contract to deliver addressed items to my specific address only, it would also open up old wounds to neighbours that do not particularly get along with each other due to past disagreements.

Also my privacy and security will be placed at a high risk, as current items which are delivered to myself, which having undergone the rough handling at the mercy of Royal Mail have been damaged, left part opened or are not securely sealed. This would give my nosey neighbour the full opportunity to peek inside packages which is a clear breach of my interests that are expected and indeed Royal Mail are under contract to protect. What would happen also if my neighbour were to deny receiving any alleged package, as signatures are not always obtained for even the 'special delivery guaranteed' deliveries, they have just nbeen posted through our letterbox on mumerous occasions in the past.

I would seriously considering issuing legal proceedings against Royal Mail for breach of contract, the very first time that any parcel or package that is addressed to myself at my address is left with a neighbour or the other way around. This is a clear infringement of our rights to expect parcels to be either delivered to the intended addressee or returned to the depot for collection by the absent party at a convenient time, if delivery cannot be served on the labelled address of the consignment.

I will reister online to opt out as suggested in the leaflet as my initial protest that I am absolutely against this absurd and ridiculous illegal idea, but neither do I wish to have to display a opt/out sticker on my door or window that will allow the indignity of it being clearly on view and easily visible to my neighbour which could serve to exacerbate the situation.

Thanks. Kevin.

Question 3:Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:

Hi - Please do not allow Royal Mail to implement a scheme that will permit items to be left at neighbouring properties or vice-versa. This would not only be a breach of their legal contract to deliver addressed items to my specific address only, it would also open up old wounds to neighbours that do not particularly get along with each other due to past disagreements.

Also my privacy and security will be placed at a high risk, as current items which are delivered to myself, which having undergone the rough handling at the mercy of Royal Mail have been damaged, left part opened or are not securely sealed. This would give my nosey neighbour the full opportunity to peek inside packages which is a clear breach of my interests that are expected and indeed Royal Mail are under contract to protect. What would happen also if my neighbour were to deny receiving any alleged package, as signatures are not always obtained for even the 'special delivery guaranteed' deliveries, they have just nbeen posted through our letterbox on numerous occasions in the past.

I would seriously considering issuing legal proceedings against Royal Mail for breach of contract, the very first time that any parcel or package that is addressed to myself at my address is left with a neighbour or the other way around. This is a clear infringement of our rights to expect parcels to be either delivered to the intended addressee or returned to the depot for collection by the absent party at a convenient time, if delivery cannot be served on the labelled address of the consignment.

I will reister online to opt out as suggested in the leaflet as my initial protest that I am absolutely against this absurd and ridiculous illegal idea, but neither do I wish to have to display a opt/out sticker on my door or window that will allow the indignity of it being clearly on view and easily visible to my neighbour which could serve to exacerbate the situation.