

My name is Mr Clinton Pitman and I live in Barnstaple and am writing to you as I strongly feel that North Devon needs to have its own radio station.

The reason I feel this way is because to have one radio station that covers all of Devon is not in the listeners best interest - especially in times when we need local information (local events and reports on bad weather (snow, floods etc...)) as only a local station such as Voice FM can give that kind of information to North Devon. Whereas a station based in Exeter covering all of Devon would not be able to devote time in such matters in such a large area.

It is also, in my opinion, unreasonable to think that one station based in Exeter would be able to offer such a diverse range of information and news to what is the largest County in the UK, and therefore there is a definite need for a local station in North Devon to cover North Devon.

Yours sincerely
